GROWTH OF DISEASE AND CIVILIZATION.
The attention of learned men has been frequently called of late to the appearance of diseases unknown or very uncommon some years ago. There is, moreover, a rapid increase of some disorders common at all times. Thus, insanity is increasing in Great Britain at a much greater rate than the population. In 1859 there were classed as insane in England and Wales 37,762, while upon the 1st of January, 1872, there were 58,640, an increase of over 55 per cent. In 1859 there were 186 lunatics to every 100,000 persons, while now there are 249 in the same number. And all this is true in the face of the fact that great attention has been paid to the treatment of the insane within a few years. Disease of the heart is also rapidly increasing in the male sex. Within 20 years the number of deaths among men between the ages of 20 and 45 (the working years of a man's life) have nearly doubled, while there has been hardly any increase in the mortality of women by the same disease. The result is due to the feverish excitement of modern life, which naturally exhausts the vital powers of men engaged in the competition of business or the general strife for position and wealth. Neuritis, one of the most common of diseases now, was hardly known a century since, and softening of the brain is said hardly ever to have been thought of. It is but a little while since some startling statistics in reference to the growing prevalence of Bright's disease in this country were published. The reader will observe that most of these disorders arise from trouble with the brain, the heart or the nervous system. In searching for the causes the student is led to the special features of our modern life. He finds in the increase of emotions, sanitary improvements, advance of medical science, etc., the explanation of the decrease of morality. But the growth of luxury, lack of open-air exercise, irregularity of living, pressure of business and overwork account for the exhaustion of mental and physical energy and the breaking down of men before they have really done their proper work. Civilization has not brought unmingled good results. We cannot live as fast as at present without a sacrifice of health and vigor.—[New Haven Palladium.]

FIDELITY.—Never forsake a friend. When enemies gather around, when sickness falls on the heart, when the world is dark and cheerless, is the time to try true friendship. The heart that has been touched will redouble its efforts when the friend is in trouble. Adversity tries true friendship. They who turn from the scene of distress stray their hypocrisy, and prove that interest only moves them. If you have a friend who loves you, who has studied your interest and happiness, be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his love was not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. Who has not seen and felt its power? They only deny its worth and power who have never either loved a friend or labored to make him happy. True good and the kind, the affectionate and the virtuous, see and feel the heavenly principle. They would sacrifice wealth and happiness to promote the happiness of others, and, in return, they receive the reward of their love by sympathizing hearts and countless favors, when they have been brought low by distress and adversity.

THE JOURNEY OF LIFE.—Ten thousand human beings set forth together on their journey. After ten years, one third at least have disappeared. At the middle point of the common measure of life, but half are still upon the road. Faster and faster the ranks grow thinner, they that remain till now become weary. At three score and ten, a band of some four hundred yet struggle on. At ninety these have been reduced to thirty trembling patriarchs. Year after year they fall into diminishing numbers. One lingers, perhaps, a lonely marvel, till the century is over. We look again and the work of death is finished.

How to Quit Tobacco.—The best thing to hold in the mouth is a mouthful of cold water, renewed every few minutes. It will take away the craving for tobacco quicker than anything else, and is wholly unobjectionable. A piece of the objection to that, and to anything that is chewed, is that it over-exercises and weakens the salivary glands. In quitting the use of tobacco, quit at once, and not attempt to leave off gradually.

Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts. If any one speaks ill of you, let your life be so that none will believe him.

Asbestos, Tin & Felt Roofing
H. W. Johns' Asbestos is recommended by leading builders in the Eastern States to be superior to other tin or shingles, as it neither expands or contracts by heat or cold, and is practically fire and water-proof. It is 39 inches wide, and is easily applied by any one.
From Report Judges American Institute Exhibition of 1870:
H. W. Johns' Improved Roofing—"Is strong and flexible, unaffected by the sun's heat; practically fireproof, and is really an article of the first order of merit." Signed,
BROCKAGE GREELEY, Pres't.
GEO. PEYTON, Rec. Sec'y.
SAM'L D. TILLMAN, Cor. Sec'y.
Report of Judges American Institute, 1871.
"These materials prove, by their general use and test of time, to answer their purposes fully." "The Best article in the market." Signed,
W. B. OGDEN, Pres't.
JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Rec. Sec'y.
SAM'L D. TILLMAN, Cor. Sec'y.
This roofing is particularly adapted to mills and furnaces, as it is acid proof, and does not sweat or rust.
Also Asbestos roof paint and cement.
Canvas roofs made perfectly water-tight, by Asbestos Cement.
Also, Asbestos roof paint, to be used on Asbestos, tin or shingles, and Asbestos Cement for bad leaks, rust or nail holes in tin before painting.
TIN ROOFING done up in neat bundles of 100 feet, in sheets 10 feet in length, sent with proper directions to any part of Eastern Nevada.
Also, common felt for sheds and other cheap, flat-roofed buildings.
Send exact measurement of building over all, and all roofs will be guaranteed to fit.
